Strauss & Troy helps Crayons to Computers share message with over 300 Tri-state schools

CINCINNATI—Greater Cincinnati law firm Strauss & Troy (www.strausstroy.com) is helping Crayons to Computers (www.crayons2computers.org), a Bond Hill-based free store for teachers of Greater Cincinnati's neediest students, communicate its programs and services to more than 300 schools throughout the Tri-state.

After attending one of Crayons to Computers' weekly Lunch and Learn tours, a member of Strauss & Troy's Make A Difference team learned of the organization's need for a high-capacity fax machine to communicate more efficiently with its schools. The firm then approached Pro-Copy Technologies (www.procopytech.com) about donating the fax machine. Pro-Copy donated a fax machine worth $1,000 to Crayons to Computers. Pro-Copy installed the machine and trained the organization's staff on how to use it. Strauss & Troy donated the fax machine's toner and a one-year service agreement. The firm also surprised Crayons to Computers with a substantial cash donation.

"They just showed up at our door with this wonderful gift," said Diane Hopper of Crayons to Computers. "And before having the fax machine, we had to manually enter each school principal's fax number. Now, we can send the same message to all of our schools with one push of a button. We're incredibly grateful!"

Crayons to Computers' mission is to ensure that children and classrooms in the Greater Cincinnati area have the basic tools for learning by transferring, at no cost, the community's surplus supplies and merchandise into the hands of teachers and school children in need.
