Strauss & Troy sends inner city children to camp

CINCINNATI/NORTHERN KENTUCKY—Greater Cincinnati law firm Strauss & Troy will celebrate its 12th consecutive year of providing inner city children with a week-long trip to summer camp starting the week of June 12th.

Since 1994, Strauss & Troy's Make a Difference Team, a community service group comprised of Strauss & Troy staff and attorneys, has partnered with YMCA of Greater Cincinnati's Camp Ernst in Burlington, Kentucky and Inner City Youth Opportunities to send inner-city Cincinnati children to summer camp for a week. This year's program will send 20 inner-city boys and girls to camp over the course of four consecutive weeks.

Strauss & Troy's Make a Difference Team raises funds to help pay for the program by sponsoring "Dress Down Day" every Friday; anyone in the firm who wants to dress casually must contribute $1.50 to the Make a Difference Team. Various groups have also participated as sponsors in the past to help cover camp fees and to purchase toiletries, duffel bags, T-shirts, towels, stuffed animals, and a group photo for each child. Strauss & Troy provides a sleeping bag for each child. The Make a Difference Team will escort the children to and from the camp each week. Each trip will end with a visit to a local restaurant, where children will share their experiences with Make a Difference Team volunteers.

For more information about the Camp Ernst summer camp program, please contact Jeannie Bell with Inner City Youth Opportunities at (513) 731-7312. The Make a Difference Team encourages organizations wishing to sponsor next year's program to contact Marsha Weaver-Butler at (513) 621-2120.
